Miss Hatcher has been a musician since her childhood. Before going to New York, she was a pupil here of Frof. Fred S. If I Were Czar!

(Written for The Times-Dispatch.) strange thoughts came easily. In the stillhitions fill one's heart and brain. In the sunlight these same ambitions seem but idle dreaming, and courage changes quick

Ordinarily the possible becomes probable, and hope turns to despair, when all the world is sleeping and you alone awake; but in matters of morals and personal responsibility it is oddly the re-have one's life stand for the things most worth while, to be a useful member of a community, is a sincere ambition at midnight when sleep fibrts wretchedly with one's cyclids, but in the warm, clear daylight one's conscience has a way of shriveling.

Sometimes I am ambitious. Last night I wanted to be a Czar of this city. Today I should be content to be prime minister to a Czar.

But in either event I should make, or have made, some laws that a woman would like. Being a woman, I would make strange laws—laws that a man would first laugh at then obey.

First, I would make all men wear petticoats, and long trains to their skirts. The penalty for wearing a short skirt would be death. have one's life stand for the things most woman a job that, according to man, should belong by the divine right of take, to man himself?

But if 1 were Czar I would live up to the privileges of the office. The superiority of man over woman manifests itself in many curious ways, but in none so convincing as in the bellef, which since time began he has held, and has caused woman to hold, thut, he was put in this world to run it, and she was put here to make it a little pleasanter for him. That she should take herself or her century at all seriously is not expected of her, and if she would be happy, she must live in man's shadow and applaud his every act. To be wise and to be happy are not necessarily the same thing. And thanks to man's unwritten and unbroken law that a woman need have no intelligent idea of her city's condition; its government; its institutions; its revolue; its appropriations; its needs, or its possibilities, he has largely succeeded in keeping her from having one. And in convincing her that her interest and her influence in matters civic. State and national are not needed, he has been a spiendid success.

But at midnight, I want to be Czar, I want to do my part towards making my city beautiful and clesn and of good report, I want to help and not be taunted with inwomanily wishing, I want to be of service first to my home, where my supremest duty lies, and then to that larger one of which my personal one is but a part.

First, I would make all men wear pettlicosts, and long trains to their skirts. The penalty for wearing a short skirt would be death.

Lore of my, city and pride in its appearance would cause this law to be the first enforced under the reign of a Lady Crar, and if at the end of three months its object had not bean accomplished, then all makes in the city would be deprived of the right to have their hair cut.

As a rule the average man doesn't see dirt. He has to be made to feel it before he realizes its presence, and saturnswept, unsprinkled streets, and edious alleys are not a personal matter, he is not stastitue to their condition. Therefore, he should wear skirts. And if I were Czur I would have a woman Inspector of Streets and Alleys, and she should have a horse and buggy or her own.

I would have to be Czur to get sich a sealing for a woman. The office would. but a part.

pairing the Battleships after every eroise, besides a lot of other repair work, and the fact that a battleship is now on the stocks at that yard makes it unadvisable that the department should give the New York yard further construction work to the exclusion of this yard. This is the feeling of the department as sounded by the active and able representative from this district.

TO RETURN HOME.

K. B. Billiott, the wealthy peanus deal-cr, has telegraphed his daughter to return home. William Henry Hill, who was married here last November, has left his wife in East Orange, N. J., because he was purchased by another wife from England. The marriage record here is that he and Mrs. Mary Annie Surage, the widowed daughter of Mr. Elliott, were married here by Rey. Dr. Joseph Rennie, of the First Presbyterian Church, at Mrs. Downer's boarding-house in Mr. Bannie, of the First Presbyterian Church, at Mrs. Downer's boarding-house in Mr. Hill was represented as single, and a professor in a military school at Bast Orange, N. J. The New York papers state that he has left his last wife, who is prostrated with shame and griet. The marriage attracted attention here because of the anti-nuptial contract, by which Hill agreed not to exercise any control over the property of the widow and renounced any claim that he, as a pretty and charming woman, who has suffered the great misfortune of losing one husband, Mr. Savage, by suicide, and now the other one by the pursuit of a previous wife.

STEAMER OLIVE LIBELED.

20 H. French, the weeking contractor has libeled the steamer Oliva. The suit, was brought in the United States District Court this morning, and Deputy Marshal West went to Franklin to serve the papers to-day. The libel is for salvage olarges of $1.800. The vessel was foundered in the gale which struck her last month, near Hollis Wharf, in Albemarle Sound, when seventeen passengers perished. The vessel and all but four of the bodies were recovered. The Olive belonged to the Albemarle Novigation Company, and had heen recently

REV. BENTON HILL HERE.

The Rev. T. Benton Hill, at present naster of the Tabernacle at Newport News, has finally decided to accept the pastorate of Park Place Empits Church, this city. This announcement was received yesterday afternoon by J. B. Britton from Rev. Mr. Hill, and the matter is new finally settled. The congregation of Park Place Church hiss made several attempts to get Mr. Hill as pastor, and it was the desire of Mr. Hill to come here, but his Newport News congregation was very much attached to him, and persuaded him at first not accept the call to this city.

Mr. Hill will take charge of the church immediately, and will preach his first sermon in the church to-morrow morning.

INQUIRIES AS TO BODY.

More inquiries as to the identity of the body of the man found floating in the river come every day. One came this morning to the police headquarters from W. H. Moore, of Garrett, Va., asking if the description of the person, name not given, who disappeared from that place in February with $300 on his person, iallies with the body of the murdered man. The descriptions do not tally in any respect. They are totally unilke.

E. L. Best, constable from Stony Point, Sussex county, and T. E. Porch declared that they believed the body of the murdered man was that of James Porch, a farmer of Sussex, and a brother of T. E. Porch whom they had reason to believe had met with foul play because of a woman with whom he had associated. But after talking with Coroner Odendibal, who had examined the body of the dead man found floating in the river here, they determined not to exhume the body.

Twenty-one Thousand Purchased Munyon's Cures on Saturday In This City Alone.

5,435 Declare Themselves Cured In Nineteen Days.

Strange as it may seem, it is nevertheless true that Professor Munyon, with his new school of medicine, has completely revolutionized the manner of treating diseases in this city. He has shown so conclusively to all intelligent people—not with extensive advertising, but by a free test of 20,000 severe cases—that his remedies do cure disease. The doubting public have become convinced of their efficacy, and show it by their immense purchases. At first many, even after seeing the wonderful results from the use of his Itheumatism Cure, questioned the merits of other remedies, but as they cost only 25c., ventured to try some on themselves, and to their surprise received such immediate relief they became converts at once.

Grand Commander Outlines Services of Grand Camp for True History.

Pickett Camp of Confederate Veterans held a finely attended called meeting last night when Grand Commander James Macgill, of Wythoville, was the guest of honor. He was accompanied by Cap-tain Thomas Ellett, adjutant of the Grand Camp. When Commander P. P. Winsten called the body to order soon after 8 o'clock the hall was well filled almost every seat in the room being taken. Commander Winston congratulated the camp on having Grand Commander Macgill present, and at the mention of the stalwart and distinguished looking old soldler from the great South-looking old soldler from the great Southwest the veterans gave resounding giplanes. General Macelli delivered a fine address, outlining in a measure the worse which the Grand Camp had done, particularly for a true history of the war. He urged that all camps should Join the Grand Camp and the U. C. wis.

Captain Ellett was also called upon and spoke most acceptably. After the formal addresses several of the veterans, led by the Grand Commander, fell to telling stories, and several good ones, all being experiences during the war, user related. General Macelli said he might be here Monday night, and if he was, he would certainly attend Pickett Camp meeting.

IN INTEREST OF SHIPPERS.

The Board of Directors of the Board of Trade and Business Men's Association have taken into consideration the Claytor bill, which will soon be referred to the State Legislature for action. It has been referred to the Committee on Legislature, which will meet on the evening of March 10th. The bill as introduced by Mr. Claytor is to protect shippers and consignees of merchandise shipped over the various railroad and steamship lines of the State against loss.

The Committee on Legislation will invite representatives of the railroads terminating in this section to be present when they act upon this matter.

LOST PRINCE FOUND PRAYING IN CATHEDRAL

(Ry Associated Press.)

DRESDEN, March 7.—Little Prince FredGeorge, cliest son of Crown Prince Frederick, was missed from the palace, and George, eldest son of Crown Frihace, and erick, was missed from the palace, and for several hours his tutors and the household officials were in consideration. The favorite rumor was that the Prince had been abducted by agents of his mother, the former Crown Princess Louise; but the boy was found praying in the Cathedral that his mother might roturn.

The Socialists are using the Crown Princess' episode for political agitation, and the unpopularity of the Saxon monach appears to have been considerably heightened. The carriage of Princess Mathilde, sister of the Crown Prince, was surrounded by a crown in Wilsdruffer-Strasse, one of the principal shopping streest of Dresden, one day last week, and cries of "Give us our Louise" were raised.

(By Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, M.C., March 7.—"We bre working on the answer to the injunction," said Judge Irwin, chief counsel for the Wabash employes, to-day.

"We are waiting on the answer to the injunction," said President Rumsey, of the Wabash. This describes the situation in the present difficulty between the Grievance Committee of the firemen and trainmen employed by the Wabash Rairoad.

President Ramsey stated to-night that notwithstanding the injunction he is perfectly willing to meet any employes and consider any grievances they may have to present to him with the view of coming to an amicable settlement.

It is generally conceled that in case the action of the court shall dissolve the injunction a strike will be declared. John Hopkins, chairman of the General Committee, Order of Railway Conductors, says that the real grievance is not a case of wages, but is a violation of the old schedule.
